

Madeleine's offers light French in festive atmosphere

During the holiday season, it is always nice to find a place you can go to, and really feel that you are away somewhere special for an afternoon or an evening. Madeleine's Petit Paris in North-vale is just that place. Owners Madeleine and Gaspard Caloz celebrated 20 years of business together this September, and today with their son, Francois, they continue to make their customers feel like guests in their own home, all while serving the best of light French cuisine.

Owner Madeleine Caloz, dressed as Santa, is pictured with her husband, Gaspard, who is the chef at Madeleine's Petit Paris in Northvale.

On the third Wednesday of every month at Madeleine's, the banquet room is buzzing with tunes from the '40s and '50s. Seniors from both Bergen and Rockland counties come to enjoy a special three-course Senior's Luncheon.

This luncheon has been a regular feature for over 12 years, and the restaurant is proud to have had seniors up to the age of 102 years old visiting. The month of December is so popular that Madeleine's has two dates set aside just to accommodate the luncheon.

During the holiday season, customers are serenaded every day and every evening by Madeleine and Gaspard with lovely tunes sung in French. This has become a tradition, and Madeleine has even made Gaspard accompany her for singing lessons this year so they can expand their repertoire.

Due to current economic challenges patrons might be facing, Madeleine's Petit Paris has attempted to make it possible for guests to treat themselves to a special meal without it being a financial strain. A new take-out Express Lunch, Monthly Specials, a bountiful Sunday Brunch Buffet, lower prices on Prix-Fixe menus, and catering/event special packages are being offered.

There are many catering options at Madeleine's Petit Paris, and personal requests can be accommodated to make a guest's special event both memorable and affordable.

For further information on Madeleine's Petit Paris, including menus and wine lists, upcoming events, directions and online reservations, visit www.madeleinespetit-paris.com.

Seniors enjoy a Wednesday afternoon luncheon at Madeleine's Petit Paris.